Hughes Resents Shots at U. S. Delegation

Were Not Imposed Upon—Letter to Underwood Gives Impression Hughes Wrote 4-Power Pact—Would Be National Calamity Not to Ratify It.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 11.—Secretary of State Hughes injected himself into the treaty fight in the senate today by writing a lengthy letter to Senator Underwood, one of the American delegates at the conference, in which he scored the thinly-veiled intimations made in the senate that the American delegates were "imposed on" in the making of the four-power Pacific pact.

Such intimations, Hughes declared vigorously, constitute a "reflection" on the American delegates.

The secretary's letter hinged about the questions that have been raised in the senate as to the authorship of the treaty, and the open charges made by some senators that it "was conceived by Balfour and written by Kato."

While not answering the question of "who wrote the treaty?" directly, Secretary of State Hughes indicated in his letter that he himself was the author of the pact.

The failure of the senate to ratify the treaty, Hughes declared, would be "nothing short of a national calamity."

PASS BUCK ON AMERICA'S CLAIM

Allied Finance Ministers Refer Occupational Army's Cost to Home Governments—Will Collect, Says Washington.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, March 11.—America's demand that the expense of maintaining the American army of occupation on the Rhine be paid first out of the German reparations constitutes a new interpretation of the Versailles pact, according to statements made by the Allied finance ministers today, in session here.

The ministers therefore declared themselves to be incompetent to render a decision and referred Boyden's memorandum to the Allied governments.

Washington, March 11.—The intention of the United States to collect the $241,000,000 for compensation for keeping the American army of occupation on the Rhine, was expressed with vigor at the state department today in face of reports from Paris that the Allied finance ministers were not disposed to grant priority to the American claim.

For the Allied ministers to turn down this claim would be one of "the most extraordinary things that ever happened," a high state department official said.

NAVIGATION TO START TUESDAY

Steamer Poughkeepsie of Central Hudson Line to Break Track Through to Kingston That Morning—River Ice Still Holding—Skillypot Running Again.

Navigation between Kingston and New York will be resumed Tuesday by the steamer Poughkeepsie of the Central Hudson Line, which will leave Poughkeepsie Monday at midnight for this city. While the ice in the river is still holding off Kingston Point, it has been gradually wasting away under the warm weather and rain and the big steamer will have no trouble in breaking her way through the ice fields.

Friday the steamer Poughkeepsie left Newburgh and got as far north as New Hamburgh, cutting her way through 8 inch ice. That afternoon the steamer returned to New York, and this morning broke her way through to the Bridge City.

With the breaking of a channel through the ice it will mean that the river current will have more of a tendency to break up the ice and it will shortly move out.

The Rondout creek is now practically clear of ice which has been moving out into the river for the past few days.

The Skillypot stopped running late Friday afternoon, but resumed trips again this morning at 8 o'clock.

SMOKE MASKS USED AT FIRE

At Glory Waist Co. Plant—Amount Of Damage And Origin of Fire Not Yet Determined.

Fire which originated in the stock bins of the Glory Waist Company, Inc., at No. 500 Wilbur avenue, about 10:30 o'clock Friday night caused about $500 damage to the building and considerable damage to the stock, the exact amount of which cannot be determined until the New York owners visit the plant and make an inspection.

The fire was was discovered by a boy named Freer who was passing along Wilbur avenue on his way home. He saw the reflection of a flash against the Palen & Bouton coal pockets on the opposite side of the street and turned in an alarm from Box No. 71, corner of Wilbur and Greenkill avenues.

The firemen found the smoke so dense they were compelled to use smoke masks when they entered the building, and the fire was a stubborn one to fight, an hour elapsing between the time the fire was discovered and the time when the last spark had been extinguished.

Three large racks, or stock bins, project from the north wall of the building, and the fire originated in one of these bins, which were filled with material to be used in making shirt waists. Much of the material was of the cheaper grade of goods used for that purpose.

Evidently the fire had been smouldering for some time, and the flash of flame which resulted in discovery of the fire was so intense as to scorch curtains at the opposite end of the building and to raise blisters on the varnished surface of some of the machines, besides breaking every pane of glass in the skylights and cracking every pane of glass in the windows.

Aaron Parker, the owner of the building and machinery, carried an insurance of $4,000 on the building, $5,000 on machinery and $2,000 on stock in process of manufacture. Stock not yet manufactured was owned by Goldberg & Rosenblawit of New York city, but its value and the extent of the damage will not be known until members of the firm arrive from New York.

The factory employed twenty-five hands and had a weekly payroll of about $350. The origin of the fire is not known. The damage to the building was caused principally by smoke. Smoke and water were responsible for the greatest damage to the stock.

ATTEND BANQUET TO GOV. MILLER

Kingston Women Hear Him Speak on Livermore Bill and Other Measures of Interest to Women.

Dr. Mary Gage-Day and Mrs. N. D. J. Murphy of this city have returned from Albany, where they attended the conference of Republican Women's banquet to Governor Miller, and a conference of state Republican women held at Republican headquarters on Thursday morning.

There were some two hundred women present at the banquet on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, mother of Assemblyman Livermore, and chairman of the Republican Women's Organization, presiding. Each man who spoke was introduced by a woman of the executive committee of the women's organization, "Team Mates," as they were designated by the governor.

The speakers who spoke for about five minutes each, were George A. Glynn, chairman of the state Republican organization, introduced by Rosalie Leow Whitney; Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, introduced by Mrs. Henry T. Burton; Assemblyman Livermore, introduced by Miss Florence Wardwell; Speaker Machold of the assembly, introduced by Mrs. George Diven; Lieutenant Governor Wood, introduced by Mrs. Ruth Litt.

Governor Miller was introduced by Mrs. Livermore as "Our greatest governor, our next governor, one who thinks solely of the interest of New York state all of the time." The governor's speech was a political one of the right sort.

Speaking of the Livermore bill, he said that he recommended the bill first because he thought it was right, secondly because he thought the greatest interests of the state of New York depended upon the success of the Republican party. The governor considered it high time that the women of the country realized that the suffrage was a responsibility and a duty, not a privilege. There are a large number of women of the metropolitan district whose votes can be put into the ballot box by a most efficient political machine regardless of the merits of the propositions for which they are voting. These votes cannot be offset by intelligent, thinking women of the state, unless the intelligent, thinking women of the state, who do realize their responsibility, make their sisters also realize theirs. The only way to do this, is to make the women a part of the works, so to speak.

The doubling electorate has doubled the votes of the unintelligent as well as that of the intelligent and that fact must not be lost sight of. If intelligent women do not discharge their responsibility, the result will be a larger portion of unintelligent votes will determine the results of elections, the governor said in part.

In attacking the Duell bill, he further said: "You know how easy it is to have organization petitions such as these ladies presented. You know how easy it is to get organizations appealed to for sentimental or other reasons, to go on record in favor of or against, this, that and the other measure, when as a matter of fact, the organiaztion has not given the fundamentals any study whatever, and if we were to determine what action to take by accepting the opinion thus expressed, we should frequently make very serious mistakes.

Among his reasons for opposing the Sheppard-Towner bill, the governor said that first it was unconstitutional and that no lawyer who had carefully studied the constitution and knew about constitutional law could have any doubt that it was unconstitutional. A member of congress had apologized to the governor for the vote of congress upon the measure, which virtually admitted that it was invalid, and said that congress knew that it was invalid when the vote was cast, but what could they do when the capital was full of women?

Again the governor opposed the bill because it would not save the lives of babies or mothers to build up a great agency at Washington to supervise in turn another state agency which in its turn would supervise a local agency. The way to save lives and given women the needed information and knowledge they need is to secure in these localities competent women, competent physicians, competent nurses and spend the money where it is needed.

That is what the state bill does.

The governor spoke for about an hour and was given a great ovation, after which those present shook hands with him, finding him very cordial, according to the Kingston women.

On Thursday morning at Republican headquarters there was a conference, led by Mrs. Livermore, at which there was a round table of the county chairmen who presented the needs and problems of their respective counties. At 12:30 the meeting adjourned to The Hampton, where a luncheon was served to some 350 women. Lieutenant Governor Wood was the chief speaker at the luncheon, addressing the women on "The Achievement of the Republican Party under Governor Miller," wherein he not only paid a high tribute to what the governor has accomplished but bespoke an even greater future for him. The women exhibited a very real and great enthusiasm for Governor Miller. Mrs. Livermore also spoke, giving a rousing address to the women on their political responsibilities and duties.

QUIET FOLLOWING GANDHI'S ARREST

Except That Government Troops Kill 22 Hly Armed Attacking Tribesmen—Gandhi Urged Continuation of His Tactics.

OPPOSE CREATION OF NEW JUDGES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 11.—Strenuous opposition to the bill creating nineteen additional posts in the federal judiciary developed in the senate today. It was conceded by the supporters of the measure that only the support of the administration can bring about its passage. The real fight against the bill, according to indications today, will be centered on the floor of the senate next week.

Republican senators, whose states were ignored in the apportionment of the new judgeships, are uniting in opposing the bill while numerous Democrats have signified their intention of attacking the bill from the floor. The measure, as amended by the senate judiciary committee, is materially different from the bill passed by the house and previously approved by Attorney General Daugherty.

Besides creating 19 new judgeships, the bill also provides for annual conferences of federal circuit or district judges from every federal judicial circuit in the country. These conferences, held at the call of the chief justice of the supreme court, would be addressed by the attorney general. They would be held with an idea of improving judicial situation, particularly in regard to crowded calendars.

Seven of the nineteen new judgeships are distributed in Massachussetts, New York and Pennsylvania, and this fact has developed most of the opposition to the bill. Two are assigned to Massachussetts, one to eastern New York, two to southern New York and two to Pennsylvania. The remainder are assigned one to Northern Texas; one to eastern Michigan; one to eastern Ohio; one to northern Illinois; one to Minnesota; one to eastern Missouri; one to eastern Oklahoma; one to Montana; one to Northern California; one to southern California; one to Arizona and one to northern Georgia.

STATE TROOPERS CONTROL HUDSON

State troopers are administering the Hudson police department, having taken over control at the request of the public safety commission, which now will proceed to formulate charges against Police Chief John Cruise, Jr., who was suspended Thursday night following a sensational prohibition raid. Federal enforcement agents, headed by Major Chris Forman, regional chief of the prohibition field forces operating out of New York, directed the raid, assisted by a detail of state troopers. Some twenty saloons and several alleged disorderly houses were searched, and a large quantity of wine and home brew was seized.

That the troopers will function at the head of the police department for at least a month was the statement of Charles M. Van Deusen, one of the three public safety commissioners, who declared it was only to protect the good name of the city that the raid was staged, and Major George F. Chandler, superintendent of the state police, appealed to in an effort to put the police force on the basis the commission desired. Lieutenant F. J. Nagle of "G" troop was acting chief of police today, but after getting things in order, he will turn over the command to Sergeant Gerrie Sager, who will have a detail of troopers to assist him.

Police Chief Cruise was not in the city today, having left at an early hour for Herkimer, to attend the funeral of Chief William Manlon, the oldest police chief, in point of service, in the state. Friends of the suspended chief, however, declare he will fight the commission in its efforts to oust him, and that he is not worried over the outcome of any trial he may have to face.—Knickerbocker Press.

In addition to the statewide amendment to the condemnation law, which would make possible the awarding of consequential damages to the owners of the Sleightsburgh ferry, published several days ago, Senator Walton has introduced an amendment to the highway law making specific provision for the awarding of both direct and consequential damages, by any commission that may be appointed, for any damages sustained by the owners of the Sleightsburgh ferry because of the maintainance and operation of the bridge. The bill in full is as follows:

"The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

"Section 1. Any commission appointed pursuant to law to ascertain and determine the compensation to be paid to the owners of land to be acquired in the county of Ulster to carry out any part of the plan described in chapter one hundred and fifty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and nineteen to connect the state highway leading from New York to Albany by a bridge over Rondout creek and by a road leading from the southerly end of said bridge to the existing highway between Rondout and Newburgh, shall have power, besides assessing, allowing and stating the amount of damages to be sustained by any owners of lots, pieces or parcels of land taken for the purposes aforesaid, to also assess, allow and state any and all injuries and damages, both direct and consequential, which such owners or any of them may sustain because of the execution of said plan and the maintenance and operation of said bridge. Consequential damages when so assessed, allowed and stated shall be apportioned in the report of said commissioners against the county of Ulster and the state of New York in such amounts respectively as said commissioners shall deem equitable and just, and when said report shall have been confirmed, the payment of said consequential damages shall be made to such owners by the county treasurer of said county and the treasurer of the state of New York in the amounts so apportioned.

"Section 2. This act shall take effect immediately."

NO CHANGE IN BONUS BILL OR PASSAGE PLANS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 11.—There is to be no change in the plan of soldier bonus legislation because of opposition by treasury officials or because of reports that President Harding disapproves the bill, in its present form, Chairman Fordney of the house ways and means committee declared today. The bill, according to the schedule worked out by Republican leaders, will be brought from the committee unchanged and will be passed by the house without alteration.

Fordney would not discuss the attack by Comptroller of the Currency Crissinger and others connected with the treasury on the proposed legislation. He thinks however, that there exists a sharp difference of opinion among treasury officials as to the effect of the bill on the money situation as applied to banks.

HARTAL SOON IN INDIA, PREDICTS GHOSE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 11.—The arrest of Gandhi, the Indian non-cooperationist leader, by the British, will result in the outbreak of the long smoldering rebellion in India, it was predicted here today by Sailendra N. Ghose, head of the Indian self-government mission in this country.

"The arrest of Gandhi will be followed immediately," Ghose said, "by a general hartal or stoppage of all business and will include a strike of all domestic servants employed by the British."

The arrest of Gandhi will not handicap the progress of India's march toward self-government, Ghose said. Nationalist leaders completed plans a month ago he said for "carrying on" without their leader.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

LITTLE HORNED LIZARDS

"I," said Lionel Little Horned Lizard, "like to be called Lionel. It is a fine name. It sounds superior. It sounds as though I were quite a creature."

"It almost sounds as though you were more than a lizard," said Leon Little Horned Lizard.

"Nothing can be finer than to be a little horned lizard," said Lionel. "I do not mean that I want to be something else than a lizard, nor do I mean I don't want folks to think of me as a lizard. I don't want them to think of me as a boy, or as a grown-up gentleman because I like to be called Lionel.

"No, I feel as though there were nothing finer than to be a little horned lizard."

"It is a good way to feel, considering you are one," said Leon.

"And do you not feel the same way, my friend?" asked Lionel.

"I do," Leon answered.

"That is good," said Lionel. "It is always such a pity for people or creatures to wish they were something else or to be ashamed of what they are.

"Now I like my name of Lionel. It's a fine-sounding name and I'm proud of it, but never, never would I go back on my family name of Little Horned Lizard."

"I don't suppose you could go back on it," said Leon, "if you wanted to."

"Ah, but I don't want to," said Lionel.

"That is good," said Leon, "for as I've said I don't suppose you could go back on it even if you wanted to. For example, suppose you did want to go back on your family name."

"But I wouldn't want to," said Lionel.

"I know," said Leon, "but just suppose you did."

"Well, as long as you are only supposing such a thing it is all right, I guess," said Lionel.

"Yes, that is all I am doing," said Leon. "But as I said suppose you did want to go back on your family name it would be impossible to do so.

"A Little Horned Lizard."

"Suppose you crawled backwards and said:

"'I am turning my back on my name,' you really wouldn't be doing any such thing. If you crawled backwards or if you turned upside down you would be a little horned lizard still.

"Turning your back wouldn't make you change."

"Indeed it wouldn't," said Lionel, "and I'm glad of it."

"So am I," said Leon, "and I feel the same way about it. But one of the reasons I'm so glad that you do not want to turn your back on your name, and one of the reasons I am so glad I don't want to turn my back on my name, is not only because it is impossible, but because it is silly and vain and not at all nice to turn one's back on what one has been, or on what one is.

"Now, there are some creatures who get up in the world who are ashamed of what they have been or of the family to which they belong.

"There are people who get lots of money who want to put on airs and pretend that they always had that money and that they don't want to bother about their old friends. That's what I mean when I say it is well that we don't feel that way.

"For creatures who do feel that way aren't happy. They try to put on airs and pretend they're fine and all of that, but they aren't really happy.

"Now the little horned lizards are happy because they are horned lizards."

"And too," said Lionel, "they're happy because they like to be themselves. They're glad they're smaller than are the usual horned lizards. They're glad they are different. Little horned lizards not only are little lizards with little horns but they let their eardrums be seen.

"That is something to be proud of. There are some creatures I suppose who don't care whether their eardrums are seen or not, but then they aren't little horned lizards.

"We like to have our eardrums seen just as little girls like to have their pretty hair seen.

"We aren't so spiny and bristling in appearance as some of our relatives and we're glad of that, too. For we're pleased to be what we are."

"Ah, yes," said Leon. "we've got a great deal to be pleased about, and many others would feel the same way if they'd only stop to think how nice it is to be one's self and not to be some other sort of a creature."

Bake in layers and use the following for filling: Take one-third of a cupful brown sugar, boil to a syrup with three tablespoonfuls of water, pour this when thick over the beaten white of an egg, whip until cool; add one-half cupful of chopped raisins.

ISLE OF PINES
PINES FOR MORE BRINNIER

The Isle of Pines Appeal, of Nueva Gerona, Isle of Pines, February 25, prints the following under the caption, "Judge W. D Brinnier Left Isle Thursday."

"His many friends sorrowed when the genial Judge W. D. Brinnier left his island home last Thursday for the United States. The judge came here a few weeks ago with two distinguished friends from New York intending to stay the winter, but the illness of one member of the party made it imperative that he return to his home at once, having only been a visitor on the island for a few days.

"The judge has been making the island his home for many years. His beautiful residence a short way from the capitol city up the winding Casas river has always been one of the show spots of the Gem of the Caribbean. He is interested in the success and the advancement of the Isle of Pines, he believes in this beauty spot, set in the midst of tropical seas and no matter where he may be, north, south, east or west, his heart is always with his greater love—the garden of the tropics.

"Judge Brinnier is also noted for his blue hens, his pink dogs and yellow crocodiles. (Some unkind, or jealous persons have insinuated that the judge's colored animals have originated in Tom Upton's, but we hasten to say that His Honor may be considered free from such an accusation, inasmuch as we have seen with our own eyes evidence of the truth.)

"Every Isle of Pines redblooded resident will certainly regret the departure of Judge Brinnier. He is always the life of a party and all we hope is that the next time he comes to stay with us that he will remain the entire season, if not for always."

The Season's Post.

JEWISH WAR RELIEF.

Period of Local Campaign is Extended.

Owing to the illness of some of the members of the local Jewish war relief committee, the time to complete the campaign has been extended. Among the voluntary contributions received, as reported by Morris Block, is a generous donation from Dean Hickey.

Mrs. Harry Jacobson and Mrs. M. Ershler of Saugerties sent to the local committee, through its chairman, Dr. Bernard M. Kaplan, $308, which they raised among a few friends and sympathizers with the cause. It was also reported at the office of the local treasurer, Marks Jacobs, 6 Broadway, that the social club, consisting of a few ladies of the Emanuel Congregation, donated the entire treasury of the club.

Voluntary contributions may be sent directly to Marks Jacobs, 6 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y.

SHOT TO DEATH THROUGH WINDOW

John Brunen, Said To Have Been Friend Of Slain W. D. Taylor, Killed With Shotgun As He Sat Reading Paper.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Riverside, N. J., March 11.—John Theodore Brunen, amusement promoter and circus-owner said to be a close friend of William Desmond Taylor, slain motion picture director, was murdered last night in his home here under peculiar circumstances.

Brunen was sitting at a window on the first floor of his home reading an account of the Obenchain trial, when someone outside fired point blank with a shotgun, the charge striking him behind the left ear, smashing the skull. Mrs. Brunen who was on the second floor, rushed downstairs to find her husband's body lying near the window.

Three men were seen by neighbors to park a car near the Brunen home shortly before the murder. Their description tallies with that of motor bandits who on July 15, 1920, broke into the Brunen home and forced Mrs. Brunen with threats of torture and death, to show them the hiding place of the family valuables. The robbers obtained about $5,000 in cash and jewelry at that time.

According to Sheriff W. T. Stecher, who lives next door to the Brunens, the first warning he had was the heavy report of the shotgun close at hand. Running to the window, he saw light blazing from the splintered window in the Brunen home.

Reaching there with several other neighbors they found Mrs. Brunen sobbing hysterically into the telephone, summoning assistance. She fainted as they reached her, falling beside the body.

Camden County detectives have sent out an alarm for a man with a nose of peculiar shape, such as to attract immediate notice. The fugitive is described as short and dark, well-dressed, as probably traveling with two companions, also well-tailored, the ages of the trio being from 25 to 28.

Uses for Turpentine.

Turpentine has many uses which the housekeeper will appreciate. A little of it in the suds on wash day lightens the laundry labor, and a teaspoonful to a quart of water, if applied to plants once a week, will make the leaves greener and cause the blossoms to become brighter. It is a sure preventive against moths by just dropping a trifle in the bottom of chests, drawers and cupboards.

When the Heart Stops.

By injecting one cubic centimetre of a one-in-one-thousand solution of either adrenalin or pituitrin into the heart when it has stopped beating, many persons who seemed to be dead have been brought back to life. The injection must be made quickly into the left intercostal space one or two fingerbreadths to the left of the sternal border according to the Medical Record.

THE OFFICE CAT

Here We Come

Said the devil to his angels,

Here come the Office Cat.

It is said the average man uses three hundred words in his vocabulary. The fellow that found that out, ought to hear our vocabulary when the power goes off or the press breaks down.

There's one bigger fool than the man who "knows it all"—that's the man who argues with him.

An attorney of Los Angeles advertised for a chauffeur. Some twenty-odd responded and were being questioned as to qualifications, efficiency and whether married or single. Finally, turning to a negro chap, he said:

"How about you, George; are you married?"

"Quickly the negro responded.

"Naw-sir, boss, naw-sir. Ah makes mah own livin."

How to Make Money.

Get a dozen eggs, a pumpkin pie, a loaf of bread, a pound of wieners, a cash register and a box of paper napkins and start a chain of restaurants. The public has learned how to make this sort of business profitable. You can retail egg sandwiches at 20 cents each, giving you a profit of 350 per cent. By using a razor you can cut pumpkin pie into twelve pieces and can retail the piece at 20 cents, thus each pie would bring you $2.40, representing a profit of 1,000 per cent, as the original pie cost you 12 cents. You can get $1 out of every loaf of bread by serving two small slices of toast for 10 cents. It is being done every day, and so far as the fare is concerned the public simply eats it up.

Former President Woodrow Wilson has joined forces with Senator William E. Borah, Republican "Irreconcilable," to defeat ratification of the four-power Pacific treaty devised by the recent Washington arms conference. Wilson has written Senator Borah, outlining his reasons for believing the treaty to be "an iniquitous alliance of the wrong." This latest photo of the former president shows how he has aged from his illness.

BRITISH ENGINEERS' UNION STARTS STRIKE

By Telegraph to the Freeman.

London, March 11.—The engineers' union today announced a lockout and started an appeal for public intervention. Almost a half million members of the Amalgamated Engineering Union and workers in allied trades especially foundrymen and shipyards workers, are thrown out of employment.

A last minute attempt to avert the lockout failed after the engineers had balloted on the employers' proposal of "managerial rights."

The employers contend that they alone should possess the right of managing their shops. The union workers say that the employers are trying to embody in that principle the employment of unskilled men on work requiring highly trained workers at union wages.

Miss Catherine Hughes, daughter of Secretary of State Hughes, soon will be married to Chauncey Lockhart Waddell, of New York. Miss Hughes is twenty-three years old and is a graduate of the National Cathedral School for Girls and Wellesley College. The groom-to-be is a Harvard graduate and served overseas during the war.

Sixteenth Century Statues.

Excavations carried on in the old cemetery of Courcebeufs (Sarthe) have led to the discovery of two statues of the Sixteenth century. One represents a seigneur armed cap-a-pie. It is executed in stone and has suffered some mutilation. The other statue is in terra cotta and life-size. It represents a woman kneeling at prayer, her hands joined, evidently a castellan's lady. The head is missing. In the Sixteenth century the castellany of Courcebeufs belonged to Diane de Merider, countess of Montsoreau.

LIVE STOCK

SHEEP CARE DURING WINTER

Breeding Ewes Should Be Kept Thrifty and Not Allowed to Lose in Weight.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

At this season the flock owner is principally interested in fall and winter feeding and maintenance. The shepherd should train himself to read the condition of his sheep by feeling the bone of the loin or back. At no time while they are in lamb should ewes be allowed to lose weight. In open, wet, fall seasons there is danger of waiting too long to start feeding.

Winter management is very important in its effect upon the returns from the flock. Leguminous hays, straws and cornstalks usually form the main part of economical winter rations. Clover, alfalfa or cowpea hay, if of good quality, may be used as the sole feed until near lambing time, from 3 to 3½ pounds daily being sufficient for ewes weighing less than 150 pounds. Oat and wheat straw are better than rye or barley straw. Cornstalks placed where the ewes can eat off the leaves may be used as a part of the roughage ration. If this ration is made up largely of cornstalks or straw, a nitrogenous concentrate should also be used. Timothy hay is not good sheep feed.

Silage will reduce the cost of the ration, but it is best to use it with hay. Feed only silage made from well matured corn, and be sure that it is not spoiled, frozen or moldy. Three pounds per head a day is the limit for this feed. For breed ewes roots, particularly turnips should be used sparingly until after lambing. The two rations here given will be found satisfactory for ewes from 120 to 145 pounds in weight:

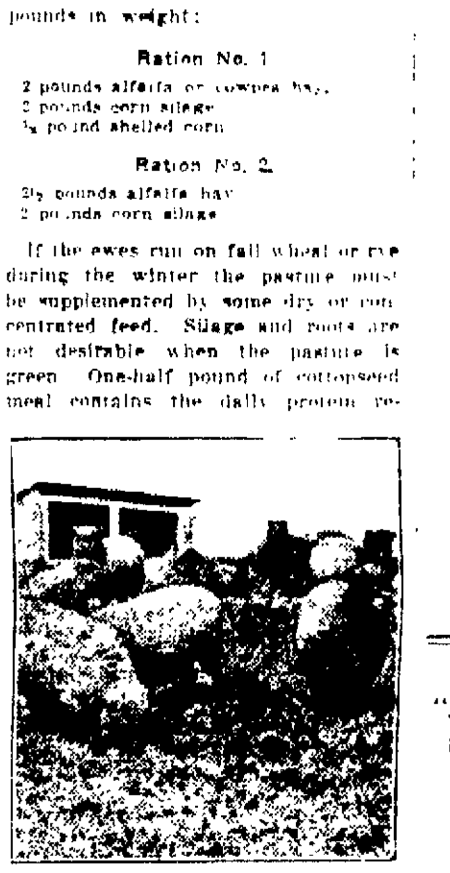
Ration No. 1

2 pounds alfalfa or cowpea hay.
2 pounds corn silage.
¼ pound shelled corn.

Ration No. 2.

2½ pounds alfalfa hay.
2 pounds corn silage.

If the ewes run on fall wheat or rye during the winter the pasture must be supplemented by some dry or concentrated feed. Silage and roots are not desirable when the pasture is green. One-half pound of cottonseed meal contains the daily protein requirement for pregnant ewes and it should be used when the price is right. However, a quarter pound along with other feeds containing protein may be better than one containing a larger amount of cottonseed meal.



A Good Pasture to Range Over Provides the Best Exercise for the Breeding Flock.

Exercise for the ewe in winter is necessary if strong lambs are to be produced. They can be induced to take exercise by scattering their feed over the ground which will induce them to do a great deal of walking. Another way is to do the feeding some distance from the shelter. Winter pasture will, of course, solve the problem of exercise. But the flock ought not to be out in rain or wet snow, as a wet fleece is a frequent cause of colds and pneumonia. A sheep will shake off dry snow and be none the worse for having been out in a storm.

Present conditions should be no discouragement to a person who thinks of starting a flock, for the man who succeeds with live stock is the one who goes in and stays in through fat years and lean. Perhaps it is better to go in when prices are low, for then it costs less for foundation stock.

It is doubtful whether a man should start keeping sheep unless his farm will allow the keeping of at least 30 ewes, and in most cases 60 or more will be handled better and more economically than a very small flock. Old ewes should be discarded at five years of age. When this is done and the poorest of the ewe lambs are sold a flock will ordinarily double in size in three years.

CASTOR OIL GOOD FOR SWINE

Simple, Harmless and Generally Effective Remedy for Animals When Off Feed.

Castor oil for hogs that are off feed is a simple, harmless and generally effective remedy. Put salt on the hog's tongue, and when she starts to lick put the castor oil in her mouth with a spoon. Two tablespoonfuls is the right dose. Give it immediately you notice a hog is off feed.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

The present is a seasonable time to give thought to the value and desirability of home ownership.

It is noted with pleasure that there are indications of a great amount of home building in the United States during the ensuing spring and summer months. Not only will this help to relieve the nation's housing shortage and furnish employment to many men, but it will also lead to more widespread practices of thrift.

Applying one's savings in payment for one's own home constitutes one of the finest examples of thrift. It is possible to save money for many worthy and noble causes but saving for a home represents perhaps the finest example of all. Children brought up in a thrifty home are more likely to become practicers of thrift than those who are otherwise reared because they have the example of their parents' foresight continually before them. No spot in the world will ever be dearer to them than their childhood home, and it will mean much for them to realize in later years that this home was made possible through thrift.

Home ownership also has a patriotic aspect. The man who owns a little spot of ground and the roof above his head rightly feels that he is in partnership with Uncle Sam. The grave manifestations of social unrest will never gain his sympathy or encouragement. He is sure to be a good citizen; an adherent to the established social order; a law abider; a constructive force in the continued development of the nation.

Every encouragement should be given to the home-owning instinct which seems to be strongly manifested now.

A nation of home owners is a nation that can never fail to fulfill a lofty destiny. It is a nation in which peace, prosperity and happiness will prevail.

Let us hope that the spring of 1922 will witness the greatest period of home building this country has ever seen.

Let us have more homes and more home owners.

DANCE INSPECTORS.

Freak bills now before the New York legislature include a bill to regulate dancing. From the taxpayers standpoint the most interesting features are a $20,000 appropriation for a state public amusement commission and provision for the appointment of inspectors, all of whom would be women, who would have to be approved by temperance and religious organizations.

To make such a law effective would require an inspector for every public and semi-public dance. There are at least three such dances a night in Kingston during most of the year, which would mean at least three inspectors. It is not uncommon for six or eight dances to be held in Kingston in one evening, each of which would have to be inspected. Then there are numerous dances throughout the county each night which also would require inspectors.

Who will pay the inspectors? Would they be state employes, holding civil service jobs and paid from the state treasury? Or will the legislature sidestep as it did with the expense of prosecution under the Mullan-Gage law so as to make it impossible to determine whether counties or towns shall bear the expense? Somebody is going to pay. Inspectors will not inspect free of cost. Probably every community can produce some sour-visaged, scandal-mongering busybody whose joy is derived from making life miserable for neighbors. For such as these the pleasure of meddlesome authority would be ample pay for a time, but when the novelty wore off they would demand cash the same as other government inspectors of private affairs.

A good natured public which laughed at the Peeping-Tom features of Prohibition legislation and regarded as a joke the prediction that the regulators would invade still further the privacy of family affairs now has a chance to recognize in the bill to regulate dancing the fanaticism which is the natural result of giving unrestricted power to the professional reformer. Equally astounding with the amazing effrontery displayed by the reformers is the fact that the New York legislature should contain a member willing to sponsor such a bill.

Some years ago when one of the leading metropolitan newspapers was conducting a vigorous campaign against a powerful political boss, it drove home its pointed arguments with the repeated question, "Must a boss be an ass?" Under present reform conditions it would seem perfectly proper to substitute reformer for boss and to repeat the question. The professional reformer will furnish his own answer.

PUBLICITY AND CRIME.

The president of the New York Stock Exchange has written a letter in which he states his personal conviction that the most effective remedy for the stock swindling evil is through publicity and popular education. But according to a reformed bank burglar who writes for a popular magazine the existing crime wave is due to the publicity given to crimes by newspapers. These men differ in their views regarding newspapers. One is a successful business man who has earned public confidence. The other man by his crimes destroyed confidence he may have had. The viewpoint of the two men should be compared in the light of their respective careers.

In Ulster county we know of many evils that have been cured by publicity. The same condition prevails elsewhere. It is admitted that the laws most frequently violated now are the Federal and State prohibition laws. The Prohibitionists complain that bootleggers are manufacturing a product injurious to health and many noted physicians state that improperly compounded home-brew is responsible for depleted health. The blame for these deleterious concoctions cannot be placed on the newspapers, which are not permitted to publish recipes for making beer, wine or liquor. If they were permitted to publish home-brew formulas, the newspapers would present to their readers the formulas issued in the interest of pure food and drink products by the United States Department of Agriculture before Prohibition went into effect. How do the people who rail against newspaper publicity reconcile the growth of the home-brew habit in American homes with the absence of definite newspaper publicity on the subject?

The entire question simply resolves itself into the world-old proposition that the honest man does not seek concealment. Reformed bank burglars who reformed after they were caught with the goods oppose publicity. Prohibition fanatics seeking to control the private lives of their neighbors prevent publicity which formerly had the sanction of the government itself. If the pure food and drink advice issued by the government before prohibition became the law was harmful to the public, what assurance is there that the prohibition propaganda now issued from the same source will safeguard the public health to any greater extent? Did the passage of laws under prohibition pressure change basic facts?

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. What insect lives longest?

We suppose it would be safe to give the prize for longevity to the cicada, the one wrongly called "seventeen year locust," although it is not a locust. This insect requires in most locations 17 years to grow from egg to adult stage. (In mild climates it may be a little less.) The long period of its life is spent under ground, feeding on juices of roots.

2. Where does the Canada goose nest?

The common site in on the shores of streams, and may be on the ground, or placed on the stump of a tree. It is built of sticks, but has a soft down lining. Occasionally the wild goose will use an abandoned nest of the osprey, and has been reported as nesting in old nests of eagles and hawks.

3. What makes the ocean currents?

Some of them anyway are due to very cold water whose source is polar ice from Arctic and Antarctic regions. This cold water is denser than that of the surface, and sinks, to flow along the bottom almost like a cold river. The warm current from the Gulf of Mexico works in a different way, but these bodies of water being continually supplied from their sources, and not being immediately mingled with the body into which they flow, keep pushing along and forming currents.

DANCE FOR UPTOWN HEBREW SCHOOL FUND

A great deal of enthusiasm is being aroused for the masquerade dance to be held in Pythian Hall, corner of Wall and John streets, on Wednesday evening, March 15. The dance is being conducted by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the uptown Hebrew school. The money raised will be placed in the fund with which they expect to build a new school. There will be two prizes awarded, one for the best dressed and one for the most comically dressed. Since this is the first dance given by this organization and as the cause is a worthy one it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Tickets may be procured from any member of the organization. Music will be supplied by the Imperial Orchestra.

Ghost Again Disappoints.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Halifax, N. S., March 11.—Residents of Antigonish county are inclined to believe today that the reports of the ghosts who disturbed the slumbers of Alexander MacDonald and his family at Caledonia Mills, are like the famous report of Mark Twain's death "greatly exaggerated." Nary a ghost showed up at the MacDonald home last night although Dr. Franklin Prince of New York and members of his party were constantly on the alert.

HUDSON MOTORS SOON IN FULL PRODUCTION

"Hudson and Essex are going strong into the spring season and will soon reach full speed production," stated Roy D. Chapin, president of the Hudson Motor Car Company.

"Our February shipments were 150 per cent more than last year and our March schedule calls for an increase of 200 per cent more cars than last March.

"We are shipping at the rate of 200 to 250 Hudson and Essex cars a day, and it looks like the beginning of one of our very best seasons.

"Since all business fell off in the summer of 1920, there has been a great pent-up demand for motor cars that has never been fully released. Indications point to the fact that this spring will see the companies that offer unusual value doing a business of which they will be more than proud.

"As an indication of the volume of Hudson and Essex sales, we are just shipping to our San Francisco distributor, H. O. Harrison, a solid trainload of our product in 55 of the largest box cars made. 275 Hudson and Essex cas go in this shipment to this single western point, representing a retail value of almost half a million dollars."

K. H. S. LOSES AT ELLENVILLE

By 29-30 Score In Extra Period Game—Ellenville Hasn't Lost This Season—Local Midgets Win.

Friday evening the Ellenville sport fans were treated to the best two games of basketball seen thus far on their home court this season; the K. H. S. Midgets easily defeated the Ellenville High Midgets, 15-2, and the K. H. S. Varsity team lost to the Ellenville Varsity in five minutes of extra play, 29-20.

There was not much to the Midgets game except the superior display of basketball on the part of the local Midgets.

When the locals took the floor two of the men were pretty well under the weather, Stumpf and Hasbrouck, but because of the nervous strain which each was undergoing they seemed to perk up and played unfalteringly all through the game. The game started off at a snail-like pace because of the referee's abhorrence to calling any kind of fouls, and for a time football was the keynote of the struggle. During the first half only 7 technical fouls were called; then a snappier devotee of the game was put in the ref's position and the game progressed rapidly toward the final tally. Dederick, captain of the local Midgets was in his prime. Scheffel was the high point man of either team with 6 foul goals and 1 field goal. Maroney and Brown who exchanged positions alternately cavorted about like tickled little mice because the cat of defeat was not in existence.

For the Ellenville Midgets Backman and a little fellow, less than five feet in height, Wynkoop, at times made the passwork of the locals look giddy and foolish; but the great fault of the Ellenville lads is that they are decidedly lacking in any commendable sort of pass work. The little fellow, Wynkoop, made Scheffel and Hasbrouck feel like plugged nickels when at one stage of the game he slipped warily between the two and snatched the ball from them in a lightning-like dart. But Backman and Wynkoop did not play the entire game for the opponents as their teammates worked always with them.

A return game may be played at the local court in the latter part of the month.

The local varsity defeat, while not trying to establish an alibi, may be laid to three things: firstly, the irregularity of the court which is about twice as long as the regulation court, and which has a squat ceiling which does not permit of long shots, secondly, the lack of pep on the part of the second varsity team which played the duration of the scrimmage, to put the final deal across in the prolongation of the game; and thirdly, the inconsistency of the referee to hold the Ellenville players to an observance of amateur rules, this may be laid to the fact that some of the players play with the Ellenville "pro" team and that the referee confused the rules. Had the opponents played strictly amateur rules different, indeed, would have been the result. However, the Ellenville boys did not play with premeditated roughness since it was plainly evident that they were trying to play a clean game.

Coach Woodard started the local second string men in the beginning of the game which started at 9:35. Floyd Burger sped down the floor for the first field goal of the fray and he was followed by Kelder of Ellenville who evened matters. Then Burger made a field and a foul in quick succession and Traphagen, of Ellenville, made matters stand 4-5. Then, making the Ellenville defensive count for naught, MacFadden, Burger and "Nach" Corregan made a field, a field and a foul, and a field in rapid order, making the score 11-5. Bensen then made a quick set-away for a clean field shot, MacFadden made a field goal, an Ellenville man a foul shot and the half ended; score, 14-7, Kingston in the lead.

When the second half started Kelder set the Ellenvilleites wild with a beautiful field goal. Then Burger made a sinker. Kelder again made a field goal. MacFadden featured for the locals. Next, three Ellenville men Traphagen, Bensen and Rippert scored each a field goal and pandemonium broke loose, for the score stood 18 all. Coach Woodard then sent Rowland into the game. Ellenville scored, likewise Rowland, and the final whistle blew with the score 20-20.

When the teams again took up the struggle Traphagen made two fields and a foul; Kelder made a sinker, somebody else did the same and the tally was 29-20 with Bedlam in the lead. As a matter of ending the game the Ellenville boys kept the ball away from the locals by passing it continually, the game ended with the Ellenville crown safe, for had the locals beaten them it would have marked their first loss this season. Dancing followed the game.

Discourage Mind's Laziness.

The lazy mind is like a spoiled child. The more it gets its own way, the worse it acts. If you give in to it, if you let it quit work the minute it complains, it will never serve you without grumbling. Nerves, like muscles, need to do a certain amount of work to keep in condition.

CLASS GAMES AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Tuesday the high school senior girls defeated the freshmen girls 14-6 with the Misses Iseman and Kelder starting. Friday afternoon the junior girls did not give the freshmen a "look-see" into the game they played together and the score was 16 to 2; the game to behold was as dead as one could possibly be. The seniors dutifully trimmed the juniors in five minutes of extra play 25-19. At present the freshmen are first in the league, the seniors are second and the juniors are tied for last place. Goetcheus and Levy were the prime complimentary shooters of the day.

NEWS FROM THE TRAINING CAMPS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Antonio, Tex., March 11.—The world's champions will have a new batting order this year. McGraw has switched Frisch and Young and said today he will put Meusel in Kelly's place after this.

New Orleans, La., March 11.—Babe Ruth's first homer was the main topic of conversation here today. The Yankee slugger celebrated his arrival in camp by driving the ball over the center field fence, the second time that feat has been accomplished. It was Mr. Ruth who did it on the other occasion also.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 11.—The hitting of Bert Griffith is the big feature of the Dodgers' playing at present. Two doubles and a single were his contributions yesterday.

Mineral Wells, Tex., March 11.—All Fort Worth is prepared to turn out today to watch their beloved Cats clash with the Cincinnati Reds and according to gossip in training camp, the chances are that the Texas gang will wallop the National Leaguers. Baseball observers here say the Cincinnati team's infield is the strongest that aggregation has had in many years.

Dallas, Tex., March 11.—Pat McNulty, Ohio State University rookie will replace Speaker in center field for the Indians if he continues to bat the field as he did yesterday, the gray-thatched leader announced today. The Cleveland team plays the first of two games with the St. Louis Cardinals today.

San Antonio, Tex. March 11.—Kid Gleason's White Sox will make their initial bow of the season here this afternoon when they meet the world champion Giants in an exhibition game. Due to the absence of several regulars the Sox will present a makeshift line-up. Russell, Hodge and Acosta are expected to divide the twirling assignment.

West Baden, Ind., March 11.—This was the last day's workout of the Pittsburgh Pirates here. After a stiff practice this forenoon, the whole outfit will leave later in the day for Hot Springs, their permanent training camp. Wilbur Cooper, star pitcher, is in better condition than for a long time. He has been pitching some wicked ones the last day or so. Earl Hamilton, who had a bad year in 1921, has taken a material brace. Other hurlers show improvement.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—The Cubs will play their second exhibition game of the season here this afternoon when they meet the Vernon Tigers. A home run by Cox and ragged work by the Cub infield gave the Portland Beavers a 7 to 5 victory over the Brains in the game yesterday.

Hendri Landru, French "Bluebeard," convicted of slaying eleven women and a child, paid for his perfidy on the guillotine at Versailles. This remarkable photograph is the first one ever taken of such an event. Landru, stoutly maintaining his innocence, here is shown being led to the block where he was beheaded.

Your Goldfish.

Do not clean the goldfish globe oftener than once a week. Better take out a dipper of water and add a dipper of fresh water one week and clean the globe the next week. When changing the water have the fresh water as near the same temperature as that in the globe as possible. Give to each fish a piece of food one-quarter inch square daily. Always keep water plant and pebbles in globe. Do not put globe where sun will strike it and do not keep in too warm a place.

When You Are All Tired Out

Saturday Health Talk No. 69.
By Froude & MacKinnon

Uncle Ben Says: "The fellow who thinks that his health will take care of itself is as optimistic as the baldheaded man who bought a bottle of hair restorer and a brush at the same time."

You dont want to get up in the morning. You have an irresistible desire to curl up in the bed clothes and stay there. But you can't, so you stretch, and as Grace Margaret Gould, fashion writer for the Woman's Home Companion says, "how the nerves of your spine are sending out calls for rest, and how each vertebrae does ache in its own special way."

It may be spring fever. It may be due to a run-down condition. The natural form of relief is to get chiropractic spinal adjustments. They will bring back normal freedom of nerve lines and healthful energy and ambition will follow as a matter of course.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments are restoring conditions of health in diseases of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, pancreas, kidneys, liver and lower organs of the body.

WHEN HEALTH BEGINS

When health begins depends on when you telephone 776 for an appointment. Consultation is without charge. Our invariable rule is never to accept a case that we are not confident we can benefit.

We are graduates of the Universal and Palmer Schools of Davenport, Iowa—the world's foremost chiropractic colleges.

The system of painless adjusting originated by us is acknowledged far superior to any method heretofore in use.

Chiropractic means "done by hand." The true chiropractor adjusts the joints of the backbone to restore alignment and remove nerve pressure. He needs and uses nothing but his bare hands.

For the first time in modern history an expedition has gone out in an effort to capture the live descendant of a plesiosaurus, recently reported to have been seen near the Andes Mountains, in the territory of Chubut. The expedition, financied by wealthy scientists of Argentina, is headed by Jose Cinagi, superintendent of the Buenos Aeirs Zoological Gardens, and Emelio Frey an Argentine engineer.

The animal, last reported to have been seen by an Englishman, is said to be a cross between a diplodocus and a plesiosaurus pictures of which are here shown.

Prof. Clementi Anelli, director of the Buenos Aires Zoological Gardens, does not believe that the strange animal reported to have been seen has lived continually since the plesiosaurian era. He places credence, however, in the probability that a descendant of the prehistoric monster exists, retaining the fundamental characteristics of its predecessors.

THE CAT HAS A LOT OF FRIENDS

Editor of Freeman:

If the cat is taxed, a great many people will pay it, for the cat has lots of friends. There are many poor, hungry, homeless ones seen upon our streets. If there is a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the cat is surely one to be protected, as it suffers more abuse from human beings than any other.

FAIR PLAY.

Editor, The Freeman:

I would like to say a few words in regard to taxing cats, to Taxacat and the rest of the cat haters. Indeed the birds should feel honored by having such sincere friends. It is my opinion that if the cats knew what excitement they were causing they would feel like tar and feathering every person that said, "Tax on Cats."

What would the farmer do without his best friend the cat?

How would he destroy all the rats and mice that ruin his grain crops and eat the feed in his barns and granaries?

Could he get rid of these destructive pests if he didn't have cats?

No.

Then why should cats be taxed?

Hunters are allowed to kill grouse, partridge and woodcock, but they do it more for sport than food, while a cat would sometimes go hungry if he didn't catch a bird.

Should we give the robins and other birds the berries and fruit we have worked hard for?

We, the farmer's know the value of our little pet and partner, the cat, so let's defend him against his enemies, "The Cat Haters."

His Best Friend,
THE FARMER.

Editor, The Freeman:

I think Mr. Tax-A-Cat needs a reply to his letter printed in The Freeman, now being a friend of a cat, also a farmer, will that Mr. please tell us farmers what we would do without our precious cats; think of all the rats and mice they destroy, and then want us to pay tax on them, being a city man for I know he is a man, perhaps he can get up at 9 in the morning and nothing to do but watch those dear little feathered darlings all day. Where we poor farmers, bless us, why we work from early until late to earn and produce something for the city people to eat, where would it all come from if not from farmers. Then Mr. Tax-A-Cat wants to make it harder yet for us by paying tax on our cats. I think a farmer has enough to contend with, let alone that, think what rats and mice destroy for use. And if the birds would stay in the trees where their place is instead of eating up all our berries and cherries, pussy would not bother to chase such trash that struts around and does nothing, why they ate up all of my lettuce seed last summer, that is what our little country birds do.

NO FRIEND OF A TAX-A-CAT.

R. F. D. No., Kingston, March 4.
Editor, The Freeman:

One of your readers suggests having a tax on cats. Being in favor of same I wish to say that four weeks ago I wrote to the conservation commission suggesting these two amendments to be added to Senator Betts's bill (a tax on cats) also a tax on all property that is posted with signs: "No Hunting or Fishing." If enough of your readers and also sportsmen would write to the conservation commission such a law may get passed. In regards to cats, I wish to say that there are too many running around in the woods and fields, laying their chances to catch birds and young rabbits. In fact I know they catch more birds than mice. In regards to having a tax on property that is posted with signs: "No Hunting or Fishing," I think it's no more than right as all sportsmen have to pay all kinds of taxes in order to go hunting. There are too many places being posted with signs "No Hunting or Fishing" by greedy people who want the benefit to themselves. Why should a hunter have a license and no place to go hunting?

A READER.

Editor, The Freeman:

You ask, who else favors a tax on cats? I'm in favor of it for this reason: It would protect the female. She very often is unfortunate in finding a home just because of her sex. Just think what a cat must suffer when she has no home and is driven from one place to another and with no one to give her a meal or drink and the weather below zero. Her ill luck is no fault of hers. Then again, there are owners of cats who give them good care, too, that if they were taxed would think they could not afford to pay. Then they would have to give up their pets. Isn't there some way to protect our cats?

One person says, Why are cats allowed to roam at will? Because they very often have no home and have to roam. That is why they are a nuisance. Give them protection. Our cats are unkind only when they are misused. Treat them well and they will give you kindness in return.

God created everything on this earth and it's our duty to be kind, not cruel.

A FRIEND OF ALL ANIMALS.

Editor, The Freeman:

Since Nineveh and Thebes, at least, and probably long before, cats and birds have been in the world. What is the use of telling us they cannot both live when we know that for thousands of years they have done so. And that without bird protection from man. No refuges, no sanctuary, no closed seasons. The birds protected themselves, and the cats protected themselves, and there are millions of both in the world today. By the way, was it cats that exterminated the passenger pigeon, the Labrador duck and other varieties of birds? The worst enemy of bird life is man, but as it is not considered desirable to exterminate him, Taxacat seems to think the "most self-respecting, the most charming, the most lovable of beasts" will make a good scapegoat.

FRIEND OF THE CAT.

Editor, The Freeman:

In our neighborhood the neighbors object to the chickens, roosters, cats, dogs and even the children. The children are a nuisance to those who have none, because they roller skate and play on the sidewalk in summer, slide with a their sleds, snowball and have a good time generally in winter. Our roosters start crowing too early in the morning; once in a while a chicken will get in our neighbor's garden; the cats and dogs fight. Is there anything which has destroyed the peace and quietness of our old Colonial city more than the auto, which honks incessantly day and night? They make more noise than all the cats, dogs, chickens and children.

Why not tax all autos operated after 12 o'clock midnight, as they are a nuisance to a long suffering public.

TAX EVERYTHING.

Editor, The Freeman:

So Progress had to look up the definition of a cat in his Encyclopedia Britanica. Too bad he never owned a cat, it would have saved the trouble of lifting that heavy ponderous volume from the shelf. I have several cats and keep them to catch the rats and mice which infest my barn and chicken coops, also for pets. The cat responds to kind treatment quicker than any other animal, and no trap was ever invented that could equal the cat as a rat catcher. A person who does not like cats can never see any good in them. Plenty of women call each other "An old hen;" "A gay old bird;" "A chattering magpie," etc., so our feathered friends are honored as well as the cat. Senator Vest did not eulogize the cat, but a greater man, M. Poincare, while president of France, paid a fine tribute to the cat. It is too long to ask The Freeman to publish. As children we all loved "The Owl and the Pussy-Cat" by Edward Lear. In Tennyson's "The Owl" the cat is also mentioned, while Mary E. Wilkins Freeman wrote a very fine story of a cat in her volume of "Understudies," and W. J. Lampton, a writer of animal life, devotes a chapter to the cat. The late Theodore Roosevelt, devoted friend of all animals in his "Letters to his Children" published within recent years, has many funny anecdotes regarding the cats who were inmates of the White House while he was president. Progress thinks it wrong for a cat to hunt its food, but it is all right for a man to train a dog, take a gun and hunt game. In Ulster county the beautiful pheasants are raised every year solely for the purpose of giving the pleasure of killing them to hunters. No one ever saw a boy kill a bird with a sling shot or rifle. No, the cat is responsible for the death of all our birds. If the Lord had asked the advice of some people when he created the earth and all that in there is, wouldn't this world be a lovely place to live in.

UNDERWOOD COMES TO PACT'S DEFENSE

Four-Power Guarantee of World's Peace Through Arbitration Not Force—Japan Had Homeland Taken Out.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 11.—Not the scrapping of battleships nor the naval holiday, decreed by the armament conference, but the four-power treaty constitutes the real guarantee of the peace of the world. Senator Underwood, the Democratic leader of the senate and a member of the American arms delegation, declared today in his defense of the pact.

"The naval treaty is remarkable, in that for the first time in the history of the world, nations have really agreed to limit their armaments, but nevertheless their relative strength remains the same," Underwood said.

"The Chinese treaties establish a Magna Charta to protect the sovereignty and territorial integrity of China and the future.

"The four-power treaty is the one that stands for peace by mutual understanding and all that peace means."

Underwood's statement that the real accomplishment of the conference was not a material reduction of armament, its primary objective, but the Pacific agreement between the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan, which was intended as a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance was made in the course of a prepared speech by him in reply to the storm of opposition the four-power pact is encountering from his Democratic colleagues.

Underwood declared that the treaty "is not an alliance, but if it were an alliance, intended to keep the peace through arbitration rather than through force," he would support it.

"The dangers of past alliances," Underwood continued, "have not been due to the fact that they were binding agreements between the powers that signed them, but because they contemplated the use of force for the benefit of the signatory powers.

"The first step in any effort to keep the peace among nations must be based upon a mutual agreement to respect the rights of others. The four-power pact does that. Its defeat would be a backward step in the life of this nation.

"If the senate ratifies it I am fully satisfied that there will disappear not only any real cause for war, but that there will no longer exist the opportunity for war that has threatened us in the past two decades; and peace will be established between the four great sea powers that now control the destinies of the Pacific Ocean."

Underwood said he regarded the four-power pact as an "international agreement for peace through discussion and mutual understanding" which "undoubtedly was necessary" before the naval treaty was signed or could be made effective.

He stated that the other powers which signed the Pacific pact "yielded to the request of Japan" that the Japanese homeland be taken out of it.

"Thus amended the four-power pact provides for peace in the Pacific, guaranteed by mutual pledges of all the signatory powers to respect the integrity of the territory of each and in case of differences between them, to confer," Underwood said.

"There is nothing in the treaty to justify either of the interpretations given it by its critics, that it provides for an offensive or defensive alliance, or if it does not, that it means nothing. The real issue involved is that of peace in the Orient, the issue of safety to our country."

Wireless Waves.

Wireless waves travel with a velocity of 300 million meters per second. They have the properties of the more familiar and shorter kinds of waves, such as light, heat and X-rays. Radio waves from a transmitting station spread out symmetrically from the station with uniform intensity, very much as waves spread out on a quiet pond when a pebble is dropped in. In a given direction from the transmitting station, at a given instant the distance between successive wave crests is the wave length.

WHY

Quail Refrain From Mating at Certain Seasons

Have you ever noticed, writes a contributor from Arizona, that in very dry years the quail do not mate? We live in a cattle country where quail are abundant. Last year there was an unusually dry spring and early summer; all the vegetation was parched, and there was no undergrowth. Usually several coveys of quail nest in a wild oak grove, but last year there was not a single brood there. And the cowboys say that where they usually would see thousands of young quail during the early summer round-ups they saw only five or six broods.

Usually the quail are all in pairs by the 1st of April and do not travel in coveys until the young birds are almost full-grown. They make their nests in the underbrush or in cactus or the bear grass, where they are better protected against the snakes and the skunks, which make away with a great many eggs and baby quail. By the first of June or earlier you can see the little families of from twelve to fifteen, searching everywhere for food. The proud father marches ahead and calls lusty advice or warning to his brood, and when they find a good feeding place he chooses a high rock or a branch and acts as lookout while the mother shows the babies the best places to scratch for worms or seeds. Last summer, however, they traveled only in coveys. The cattlemen say it happens at rare intervals when the wild feed is scarce.—Youth's Companion.

WAS NOT THEIR LUCKY DAY

Why Two New York State Boys Suddenly Saw There Was No Reason for Rejoicing.

New York money makers have many schemes, but here is one which has probably not been heard of before:

Two country boys from up state visiting an uncle in Brooklyn crossed the river to Manhattan to "see New York proper." At Union square they espied a "peep show" where one can see all sorts of things by dropping a penny in a slot.

While one brother was gazing in one of the slot machines the other glanced down and observed a $20 bill laying near his feet. As he stooped hastily to pick it up another man also grabbed at the greenback, but the country boy was first and got hold of the piece of paper. The stranger immediately claimed that he should receive half of the $20. A compromise was reached whereby the boy who held the twenty was to give the stranger all the money he had in his pocket and keep the bill. The amount of cash given to the stranger was $2, all that the uncle of the boys would permit them to carry on their person from Brooklyn.

Returning home the nephews gleefully told of their great good fortune.

"Let me see the bill," said the uncle, and the boys handed out their treasure for his inspection. It was a counterfeit!—New York Sun.

How Tipping Is Arranged.

One of the hotels on the Riviera is trying to solve the tipping problem by a profit-sharing system. By this system a guest of the hotel is supplied with vouchers by the hotel management for part of the 17 per cent of his bill which is devoted to payment of the hotel's employees. These vouchers are to be distributed by the guest among the hotel's workers, a list of whom is supplied to the guest with his bill. The system, as one readily sees, is not only to get away from it, but by some method which will reward service. Some hotels have tried the plan of adding 10 per cent to the guest's bill and from that amount distributing tips. But that resulted in the careless waiter getting as much as the attentive waiter. The new plan overcomes that difficulty.—Buffalo Courier.

Why Hope Is of Value.

A man without hope is the poorest man alive because the lack of hope dulls vision. It is hope alone that makes us willing to live. Man sees nothing to urge him on to aspire to higher levels without hope as the foundation. And where there is no hope there is no endeavor. Great hopes make great men and the man who does not try is pronounced a failure. Hope makes a man see the brighter side of life and makes him believe that there is a pathway that leads to greater things. When this belief is assured man will strive to reach the desires of his expectations. And the man who honestly strives for that which he desires—there is hope for him.—Cecelia Anthony in the Thrift Magazine.

WOODFILL WON HIS EMBLEMS

Honors Everywhere for Sergeant Who Exterminated Machine Gun Nests and Many Germans.

When Sergt. Samuel Woodfill pays a casual call on a friend nowadays, he is given "the freedom of the city." It is no longer possible for him to travel merely as a "person." The man who cleaned out three machine gun nests and killed 20 Germans as a morning's job found Jersey City N. J. waiting for him with brass bands when he stopped in to visit the American Legion. The next day he charged over to New York city where, as guest of Supreme Court Judge McCook, he was welcomed from the Bronx to the Battery.

Woodfill says of his soldier-father "that he learned about shootin' from him." And he shifts all the credit for his heroic deeds to the government. "It was just the efficient training of the regular army," he explains. He claims that his twenty years as "regular" should qualify him to speak.

The sergeant wears his laurels well. He is striking in appearance and somewhat serious in manner. He values even more highly than decorations the tribute of his vivacious little wife, who claims he is "peerless at kitchen police duty."

PLAYS PART OF UNCLE SAM

Former Private in Civil War Needs No Makeup to Participate in Pageants and Parades.

Uncle Sam, long the product of cartoonists, exists in the flesh in the person of George Campbell, former private in the Civil war, who is spending his latter days at the United States Soldiers' Home in Washington, D. C. With his steel blue eyes, white goatee, Campbell is such a perfect incarnation of the artist's conception of Uncle Sam that he needs no make-up to make him the most attractive figure in a pageant or a parade.

To keep up with the times, Campbell has adopted the George Washington post No. 1 of the American Legion, the first post to be organized. He is the official grandfather of the unit, and takes great pleasure in fighting over the Civil war for the benefit of his younger buddies.

Born in Ireland, Campbell was brought to America as an infant. During the Civil war he served with the Seventeenth Infantry. Now-a-days nothing pleases him more than to don his red, white, and blue costume and lead a parade.

Announces French Nativity.

Maurice (Jimmy) Brocco, who with his partner has for the past two years won the Madison Square Garden bicycle race, has announced his French nativity after reports had him an Italian. He was born in Fismes, on the Vesle river, Department of the Marne, 33 years ago. Fismes was recaptured by American troops in July, 1918, in a desperate encounter.

Post Is Thanked.

Official letters of thanks from Lord Curzon of Great Britain and the British ambassador have been received by the American Legion post at Somerville, N. J., which held a military funeral over the body of a British army captain. As the captain had no relatives in this country, the city was about to inter the body in the potter's field.

Armistice Day Casualties.

There were 3,912 casualties in the A. E. F. on Armistice day, November 11, 1918, according to the adjutant general's office. Of these, 268 were killed, 2,769 severely wounded, 466 slightly wounded, 177 slightly gassed and 232 wounded and gassed, degree undetermined. The Fifth division bore the brunt of this day's casualties.

Foch Would Have Big Staff.

"If there ever is another war," said Ferdinand Foch, marshal of France, while speaking of his trip of 16,000 miles through 42 states as the guest of the American Legion, "those in the American Legion responsible for organizing this journey shall be on my staff. I compliment the American people on its American Legion."

Would Hold Training Camp.

General Pershing has recommended the retention of the nine main training centers—Camps Devens, Dix, Meade, McClellan, Knox, Custer, Fort Riley, Travis, and Lewis.

Madame Schumann-Heink Continues Work of "The Greatest Organization in the World."

"To bring joy to the boys who so gloriously offered their lives" is the cause to which Madame Schumann-Heink, now sixty years old, has dedicated the remainder of her days. Back from a tour in the Orient, she has plunged into the task of being a mother to the American Legion, convinced, she says, that it is "the greatest organization in the world."

The role of mother has been Madame Schumann-Heink's greatest success. And now, with a son of her own and a million adopted sons, she finds as great an outlet for her lovable nature and her talent as in the war days, when she spent much of her time in camps, singing, working with her needle, and spreading cheer.

"I have never been happier, said the great star, who, in spite of her years, still has the grace and the color of youth.

SAM SOO HOO DIED FOR FLAG

Body of Patriotic Chinaman, Born and Educated in America, Sent to China for Burial.

The last journey of Sam Soo Hoo, killed in action in the Ourcq valley, is told by the American Legion Weekly.

Of Chinese parentage on both sides, but born and educated in San Francisco, Sam, when he became a young man, went to China and married, thinking some day to return to America. When in 1917 news came that America had entered the war, Sam kissed his perplexed little bride and said: "I must go."

Time passed, and a white cross stood over all that was mortal of Sam Soo Hoo. A Red Cross man came along and took a picture of the grave, sending it on to the widow, who wondered what it meant. And then a request came from relatives that the body be sent to China. So now, close by Jia gi Chuen, just outside the south gate of Canton, the slender matron waits the return of her husband, where, draped in the flag of the country for which he died, he will be laid in the dust with his honored fathers.

ONLY OFFICER TO SURVIVE

Capt. Bert Rugh Saw All Fellow Commanders of His Battalion Fall in Battle.

The only officer in his battalion to survive, Bert Rugh's military record reads like a chronology of the tides of battle during the dark years of the war. His experiences with the Canadian army, however, are lost in his absorption in the business of putting up a $100,000 club house for Cedar Rapids (Ia.) post of the American Legion. This, when completed, probably will be recognized as the finest Legion home in the country.

Rugh began his military career as a buck private in Company C, Forty-ninth Iowa volunteer infantry, serving in Cuba from April, 1898, to May, 1899. In 1914 he joined the Second Field troop of the Canadian Engineers, went overseas, and was promoted to a lieutenancy. During the course of events, every other officer in the battalion met his death. Three of Rugh's orderlies were killed in action, and in one attack Rugh was the only member of his company to come through alive.

FARM SANITARY LEAGUE REPORTS

The annual report of the Jewish Agricultural and Industrial Society for the year 1921, contains much of interest. In reviewing work of the Farmers' Sanitary League is the following:

"Fathered and nurtured by this department, the Farmers' Sanitary League emerged from the status of a desirable plan into an actual living reality. The league, organized at Ellenville, New York, at the close of 1920, with a membership of thirty, had a steady growth and at the time of its first annual mass gathering held on Thanksgiving Day, it numbered more than three hundred members. The league is composed for the greater part of Jewish farmers, although there are no dividing lines of creed or race. It has adopted an excellent sanitary code. Every member pledged himself to improve the sanitary conditions of his premises in the direction of safer water supply, cleaner sewage and garbage disposal, active fly prevention and adequate food protection, and to do all in his power to make rural life safer and healthier for himself, his family and his summer guests. Though a common interest stimulates the members with enthusiasm for this new movement, the league nevertheless looks to our society for guidance and direction."

The year's work under the head of the Ulster-Sullivan campaign is reviewed as follows:

"A few statements will be appropriate concerning the year's labors in the Ulster-Sullivan district. It is here where large numbers of our farmers live. It is here where hundreds of thousands of our people from the city spend their summer vacations. It is this district, therefore, which presents our greatest and most important problem and which necessarily becomes the most fertile center for our sanitation activities. During the year we stressed all of these sanitation features which we adopted in our original plan of attack. We visited hundreds of Jewish farmers and every farm visit, every inspection, carried with it sanitary teaching and advice. We taught, urged and demonstrated how to obtain improvements in water supply, in sewage and garbage disposal in fly prevention and in food protection. We gave illustrated lectures and showed moving pictures. We brought our farmers to our sanitation exhibit at Ellenville and gave almost daily demonstrations of the various modern sanitary appliances located there. We spoke before farmers' gatherings, town boards, village boards, Chautauqua societies, home bureaus, farm bureaus, mass meetings, and groups of summer boarders, ever preaching, constantly urging, better sanitation, better health. Certain figures may illumine the magnitude of our labors. We visited 702 farm homes and reinspected 340, making a total of 1,042 visits. We inspected 760 kitchens, 604 dining rooms, 4,053 sleeping rooms, 668 wells, 218 springs, 684 dry toilets, 304 flush toilets and 228 cesspools. We inspected 430 dairy barns and 120 horse stables. We distributed more than 5,000 sanitation posters, fly pamphlets and public health bulletins. The many gatherings that we had the opportunity to address gave us the great privilege of spreading the principles of decent sanitation and cleaner living to a grand audience of 35,000 people.

It is but proper to state that the accomplishment of such intensive field work was made possible only through the able assistance of Frank Mearson, who, during the months of July and August, worked tirelessly with us in this district.

The response to our labors was gratifying. Reinspections showed that during the year the water supply of 202 wells had been safeguarded by proper repairs to walls, platforms and curbings. Modern plumbing was installed in 45 places, with the resultant placement of 72 flush toilets and the construction of 54 new cesspools. Protective repairs were made to 225 outside toilets. More than 300 new garbage cans were placed, 312 new screen doors and 1,840 new screen windows were installed. Reinspection of 245 dairy barns showed that 148 had definite improvements, both in dairy equipment and dairy methods.

These visible and tangible results however, are not the most important fruits of our labors gratifying as they are. The universal desire aroused for sanitary betterment—that desire which found expression in the above-mentioned manifestations—we feel, is the greatest and the most satisfying response. It is this striving for betterment, this ideal, that we hope to maintain and to elevate to still greater heights."

KINGSTON BAFFLES COHOES QUINTET

In Last Home League Game—Plays Old Kingston Team Tuesday—Phoenicia Thursday.

The local combination outclassed the league leaders Friday evening at the local armory court in a fast struggle by the score of 19 to 10.

Harvey started the scoring with a two timer and every member of the Morgenweck clan was alert. So much so that with four minutes remaining to finish the first half the up-staters were scoreless while Kingston scored twelve points. During the few minutes left to finish the session the Cohoes team sank two sinkers and made good once from the foul line. Score: Kingston, 12; Cohoes, 5.

In the second session the locals played a close game. Their floor work was of the highest order. At no time during this period were the leaders dangerous and the locals made two more points than their rivals in this period. Within a few minutes of closing the period, Bergkamp made the only field goal of this period, while Kingston had two two timers to their credit. Cohoes caged four out of nineteen attempts from the chalk line. Kingston made good five out of fourteen. Davey was the referee and there was little protesting.

The local players were in the best of shape and put up a good clean fight. Jerry Sullivan besides playing a wonderful floor game caged two field goals and one from the penalty line.

The score:

Score at half time—Kingston, 12; Cohoes, 5. Fouls committed—Kingston, 19; Cohoes, 14. Referee Davey. Timer—Hoben. Time of halves—twenty minutes.

On Tuesday evening of next week a very interesting contest is expected when the old time Kingston team opposes the present Morgenweck clan. In the old timers line up will be seen Frankel and Sugerman forwards; Tome center and Penino and Henschel guards. The Kingston line up will probably be the same as in Friday night's contest.

On Thursday evening the local state leaguers journey to Phoenicia to play the club representing that place. Friday's contest at Amsterdam will finish this year's schedule for the Kingston team.

ASHOKAN WINS FROM Y. M. H. A. COMBINATION.
